Having recently returned from an injury-imposed vacation, LPGA tour player Janet Coles of Monterey is ready to finish out the 1987 season uninterrupted — almost.

Coles, 33, a graduate of Watsonville High and UCLA, and about 10 to 15 other women will be participating in a 400-mile charity bike ride, starting Satur-

The unexpected time off has helped Coles realize the value of some of the less tangible aspects of life.

"I usually play 25 to 28 tournaments a year. It's hard to have a normal lifestyle or become involved in community affairs if you are gone that much," she said.

"Traveling used to be fun when I was young," said Coles, who turned 33 last week. "Flying was
